'ASREM-3100P' (Aircraft Store Release & Ejector Mechanism)

'ASREM-3100P', a 14inch pneumatically actuated ejection and release unit is used for safe separation of stores from fighter aircraft. ASREM-3100P releases and ejects the stores away from the aircraft after receiving the command. Entire release mechanism of ASREM-3100P is housed within the two alumium plates which has marking for manual or ground locking/ unlocking of store. It holds the store with its two suspension hooks, spaced at 14inches and engaged with NATO std lugs of stores, during various flight manoeuvres. Two thrust ejectors have been provided at both ends of ASREM-3100P to impart the ejection velocity on store during launch, which ensure the safe separation of store. These ejectors housing also enclose the sway braces. Four Sway braces, two at fore end and two at aft end have been provided with preload to constrain the stores tri-axially during flying. Using the four mounting holes provided on ejector housing, ASREM-3100P can be integrated on twin or quad rack which itself is integrated on fighter aircraft. ASREM-3100P is also provided with micro switches which sense and send feedback of locking or unlocking of mechanism.

ASREM-3100P is actuated using high pressure pneumatic system. Gas is stored at high pressure inside the bottle and released to the manifold through solenoid valve when electric supply is provided. Flow of pneumatic pressure towards fore and aft ejector end has been controlled through orifice setting which results in desirable pitch up/down release of store. This pneumatic actuation system provides the maintenance free operation of ASREM-3100P.

ASREM-3100P is qualified for airworthiness and CEMILAC certificate has been granted for airborne applications.
