

High Explosive filling PBHE-515 for Naval Missile Warhead

HEMRL developed indigenous high explosive filling for use in Naval Missile Warhead. The technology includes refurbishing of the Missile Warhead with cast cure high explosive filling. The warhead performance tests filled with developed explosive composition is successfully completed. The technology for the explosive system of the missile warhead is fully developed and ready to be transferred to the interested industries for bulk production.

Unique selling Point (USP):

Developed technology met all performance parameters during evaluation trials and ready to be transferred for production and is equivalent to global state of art. All the raw materials and process equipment required for the preparation of explosive filling are available indigenously.
